The Next Chapter for VOA NCNN

The start of 2023 comes with much promise. The promise comes in the form of people like you and our staff who make VOA the life-changing organization it is. As my first year in this new role kicks off, I am filled with excitement knowing more lives will be transformed with your love and support.

As I reflect on the past year, I can't help, but think of Leo McFarland and his 44-year legacy of servant leadership, love, and compassion. He set an example for me that I admire and mentored me along the way. As we embark upon a new chapter, we will continue to live out the values he exemplified and honor those we are called to serve.

You inspire me and fill me with hope. Your kindness is what encourages our clients to believe in their self-worth and work towards a brighter future. You make VOA's work possible.

I am grateful for your partnership as we continue making our community better by providing tools to those who are rebuilding their lives, sparking new innovations, and furthering our commitment to equity. Together we will build new programs and services that create lasting change for people and help our communities thrive.

Thank you for being an integral part of the VOA family and the spark for hope!
